

Consultant Energy

location: Christchurch | time model: full-time | career level: entry level/graduate, young professional

As a consultant, you are THE ambassador between our development and the New Zealand energy market. Through your intensive relationship with the customer and regular discussions, you can identify new requirements and needs and ultimately ensure that these are taken into account in the further development of our products for the New Zealand energy market. As a solution finder, you can handle technology and people equally well.

practice areas

- Main focus: conceptual work and expert support of projects as well as parameterisation and introduction of the Robotron energy market platform to our customers
- Following topics could be managed from you: billing and invoice verification, offer calculation, market communication, interface consulting and smart metering
- Advice to our customers about our products
- Identification of new requirements and mapping of these to existing or new functions and processes
- Supporting our clients in customising and optimising business processes and coordinating our on-site responsibilities
- Ideally, you will be able to perform minor programmatic adjustments and configurations on your own or support the development process with guidance from our developers
- Conducting workshops in the context of products related to the Robotron energy market platform and to product-independent specialist topics in the energy sector

requirements

- Degree in computer science, mathematics or business studies (focus on energy industry)
- Ideally, knowledge of the energy industry and legal framework of the energy market
- ideally first work experience in the energy industry
- Experience in modelling software systems and basic knowledge of relational databases and SQL are beneficial
- strong customer orientation and communication skills
- very good analytical skills
- German language skills are an advantage, but not required
- Traveling in New Zealand is sometimes necessary
